His Reverence Caught Fibbing.

In a late number of a Jacksonville paper (we believe the Reporter) an account is given of a political speech made at that place by Rev. C. F. Smith. The Rev. Fork is reported as saying that he had never been a minister, but admitted that he had been for a short term a sort of local preacher in the Methodist connection.

Rev. Carving Fork's strong suit has always been the "candid man," but if closely watched, he will generally be found the very reverse. So in this case. By the published appointments of the Oregon Conference held at Portland in September, 1852, it appears that "Jos. S. Smith" was appointed preacher to the Jacksonville circuit. By the same authority it appears that at the Conference held at Salem in March 1853, he was appointed to the Rogue River station. These appointments can be found in the Statesman of September 18, 1852, and March 26, 1853, respectively.

At this time it appears that Smith was an itinerant preacher of the Methodist Conference, and for two years was appointed to minister in the very same place where he now has the effrontery to stand up and deny the fact. Indeed we have heard persons who then resided at Jacksonville, speak of the old pole meeting house he undertook to build there during his unprofitable ministrations.

From the time Jo. Smith quit "rough carpentering" for Nesmith at Oregon City, in 1846, and joined the mission at Salem, the Methodist Church of Oregon has been his sheet anchor and house of refuge. And now, when through its influence, nurture and admonition, he has grown into influence and wealth, what can be thought of this ungrateful attempt to deny his past association with the ministry of that body for the purpose of propitiating a Copperhead rabble who revile her communion only because of the loyalty of her members? Eating the palpable falsehood involved in the denial, could anything be more unworthy of a Christian or a gentleman? And this man, ashamed of his ministry, is now the advocate par excellence, of the Copperheads in this State! They are well met and well mated.

CHIVALRY REDIVIVUS.—Since President Johnson began to talk about "Northern traitors," the Democracy have been quite rapidly re-assuming the old tone of the chivalry when a buck or a nag was sufficient to scare a Northern doughface into fits or out of them. Little Tom Florence, a good representative of the pepper-pod chivalry, a traitor all through the war, and now editor of the Constitutional Union, says of Congress:

"Three men had better beware. They are not a legal, Congress, but an unconstitutional body of usurpers. The country feels that the great error of the President was in recognizing them at all in their self-important assumption. A little Cromwellian action is just the thing needed now, and there are 200,000 Democrats who would back that kind of play, with a good relish.

C. C. Burr, the editor of the Old Guard, the organ of the treasonable democratic league of that name, recently said in a speech at Hoboken, N. J., in support of Johnson:

"When every Democratic editor will speak out his real thoughts, and say boldly and defiantly that he believes men like Gen. Robert E. Lee to be patriots and men like Seward and Stanton to be traitors, there will be more honest men in the land than there is now.

So far as Lee, Davis, Stevens, &c., are concerned, Fay, Kelley, Lane, O'Meara & Co., have already said boldly and defiantly that they are good enough patriots to be admitted into Congress without question, except as to regularity of their election. Their honesty in thus speaking out their "real thoughts" may be commendable, but their patriotism is most damnable.

FOR STRONG'S BENEFIT.—Judge Strong, one of the candidates on the Democratic ticket of Multnomah county, came to this coast a good many years ago, in the character of a Federal appointee under Fillmore, we think. Judge Strong was then a Whig, as well as we recollect, and we have a vague remembrance that he then, and for years afterward, had a peculiarly strong contempt for a democrat. It was his strong suit to get into a bar room crowd and tell funny, and not unfrequently, rather smutty stories, illustrative of his contempt for anything in the garb or shape of a democrat. We reproduce from the Argus of a few years ago, one of his happiest efforts in the way of ridicule:

He told the crowd that he happened among that he had invented a machine for making democrats, which he called "Democracy Made Easy in Seven Lessons." His "machine" consisted of an inclined plain of seven sections. The first section upon which the candidate for democratic honors was greased and seated, had but a very gradual downward slope, the second section was more descending, while each succeeding one had an increased angle of declination, which increased the velocity of the candidate downward until the seventh, which hung straight down, and let the fellow suddenly "drop" into the sink. The Judge being fond of whisky, was in the habit, while exhibiting this machine for a treat, to get on the think just to show the boys how it operated. On one occasion, after having made several drinks by repeating the explanation, a wag of a democrat climbed the seat of the Judge's pants just as he was getting up for the last slide. The consequence was, the Judge, on mounting, found himself sliding down. He was too drunk, the machine was too steep, and he was too well greased, to save himself, and he soon "dropped" down the last section into the democratic mire, where he has been wallowing, half blinded with mud, ever since.

That's how Judge Strong came to be a democrat.

LITTLE LUPUS ON THE RAMPAGE.—Leo. Wolf (jargonice, Little Lupus) held forth the other evening at the Copperhead Club Room. They say he ten-totally demolished Senator Williams. We hope he did not threaten to hold Williams personally responsible if he noticed him in reply, as he did Strong in the Meyer case. Indeed, we thought Lupus had given up the misty bifulcan since that occasion. We hope the sun and moon will still roll on in their appointed course; also that Senator Williams will survive the attack of this fierce, snapping—but we will not continue our worthy President' similitude any further. Lupus has a very prepossessing appearance—has rather doggerish eyes and lofty brows—is something of a poet philosopher and parlor-sensationalist, but still he is little and will never grow big, and—little bants should keep near shore. This is our opinion, and we give it freely and without costs.

SPEAKING HIS REAL THOUGHTS.—The Santa Rosa (Cal.) Democrat, a full brother to Parish Brown's Sonoma Democrat, speaks his "real thoughts," as suggested by C. Chauncey Burr, as follows:

We see nothing in the character or conduct of Robert E. Lee which does not impress us with the belief that he was actuated by as pure principles and as lofty heroism as his kinsman, George Washington.

That is good Democracy, and just exactly what the present Democratic leaders will all say when they conclude to speak their "real thoughts." Cox, Democratic representative from Josephine county, said as much in his speech last winter on the constitutional amendment.

DAMOCRATIC O'SHEE.—George K. Shiel a Copperhead lawyer of Salem, and the man who misrepresented and disgraced Oregon for two years in Congress, stated out at Silverton, last Saturday, that when an impartial history of the late rebellion has been written, the names of Abraham Lincoln, Wm H. Seward, Benjamin Wade, and two or three other leading Union men, names unrelated with those of Benedict Arnold and Stephen Hull —Statesman.

The New Yorker, a Republican paper, says: "Equal rights to all" is the law of all loyal American citizens will triumph, or the land will be cut down in blood from the St. Lawrence to the Gulf of Mexico."

Democratic "Loyalty."

At a late meeting at Scio, the Gibraltar of the Linn county Democracy, a United States flag was exhibited to the audience by Col. Hawkins, when nearly all the Democrats present, to the number of at least two hundred, manifested their contempt and hatred of the "flag of the free" as a STORE OF LONG GROANS AND REPEATED HISSES. There's Democracy for you! These Confederate patriots will not endure to see the flag of our country unfurled before them. As a further evidence of the genuineness of their Democracy, we may mention that when John B. Weller was making a speech in

Superintendent of Schools—GEO. H. ATKINSON.
Coroner—DR. A. J. HOFFMANN.

Think of This.

Voters! you who may be doubting about how you ought to cast your ballot, call to mind the position of the two parties during the great rebellion—that terrible time when our glorious Republic was rocked from center to circumference by mad revolt and intestinal conspiracy; when the prospects for a Union victory and a restored country were indeed darker than the pall of night; when good men shuddered at what might come even on the morrow; when loyal and brave men were falling in great heaps before the murderous fire of sanguinary demons of human form; when Hope even, was almost dead, and when nothing but the blessings of God upon the courage and devotion of true, tried and loyal men, eventually rescued our beloved Government from the doom invoked by treason.

Remember, how, through all that time, the Union party stood by our great martyr President, encouraged him, furnished him men and money for the great work, and upheld his arm by the great moral force of public opinion.

Remember that the Union party sent into the field the men who saved the country.

Remember that the Democratic party opposed coercion, without which the Government could not have been saved.

Remember that the Democratic party bitterly denounced the very first step taken by our President to quell the insurrection—the call for 70,000 men, immediately after the firing on Fort Sumter.

Remember that the Democratic party opposed the war and clamored for peace, even at the very time when the rebels were declaring with fierce emphasis that they would consent to no peace which did not recognize their independence.

Remember that the Democratic party spoke and voted, in Congress and at the polls, to embarrass the Administration, in the prosecution of the war.

Remember that the Democratic party was false to the country when it most needed the physical and moral support of every citizen.

Remember that the party which thus proved false is the same now as then. It was not then the party with which any loyal man could act. Being treacherous then, can you trust it now?

Remember that the Union party, which stood faithfully by the Union in its time of sore trial, is the safest party to trust now.

The "Rump" President.

The New York World is the leading organ of the Democratic party in the United States—excepting, of course, the Herald of this city, which is edited by Beriah Brown, whom Abbott calls the "ablest journalist in America." The World says, and the Oregon Herald has said substantially the same thing, that the "deliberations of this body (Congress) can hereafter have no value to the public. We deny that it is a Congress of the United States." The United States, then, has had no valid legislature for the last five years. If Congress for five years past has been what the Democrats call a "Rump," will they or their "organ" in this city please tell us who made it so? If it is a "Rump," it was made such by the withdrawal of the rebels in 1861, and if it is not now the Congress of the United States, we have had no Congress since the secessionists withdrew five years ago. If the acts of the present Congress are invalid, so are those of two preceding ones. Most Democrats go the whole figure, and declare that we have had no valid legislation since the Southern members absented themselves in 1861; whence it follows that the rebellion was put down unlawfully. If the acts of Congress are to have no force because eleven States, through their own fault, are not represented, will some Democratic savant tell us how Andrew Johnson happens to be the lawful President of the United States, seeing that eleven States had no voice in his election? If we have a "Rump" Congress, we have a "Rump" President too. And if the "Rump" Congress cannot legislate upon matters that concern the South, while the eleven States are unrepresented, how can the "Rump" President assume also to be President over the States which did not participate in the election? If the "Rump" Congress is to abdicate in favor of the lately rebellious South, the "Rump" President must abdicate too. What usurpation in Andrew Johnson to insist on being President over the eleven States which were unrepresented in the Presidential election!

THE CONTENT DEEPENS.—Only five days now remain of this campaign. The enemy have been worsted in the argument everywhere. Every plank in their platform has been sunk out of sight, and they now only rely upon the demagogue's cry, "Negro Equality." That is the only argument left with which to stay a sinking and sunken cause. The good sense of every man rejects that argument as false, foolish, and insulting to the intelligence of the people.

It is the urgent duty of every Union man to work diligently, untiringly through every one of the remaining five days to increase the loyal majority which is now as sure as fate to be given next Monday. Make that majority rousing. Make it an overwhelming and crushing defeat to the plotting traitors. In no other way can you now so well serve the country.

Loyal men fought and soundly thrashed the rebels who took up arms. Now to the ballot-box and soundly drub the confederates of rebels who stayed at home. Make their treason odious by the stunning rebuke of a rousing big Union majority.

ARCHBISHOP GOOD DEMOCRAT.—When Governor Gibbs was speaking at Lebanon the other day, a Democrat by the name of Rutledge called out, "JEFF. DAVIS IS AS PURE A PATRIOT AS EVER LIVED!"—Statesman.

That is what Jo. Lane said. O'MEARA SAYS HE HAS BEEN GUILTY OF NO CRIME UNDER OUR CONSTITUTION.

KELLY, FAY AND LANE SAY THEY WOULD ADMIT HIM TO A SEAT IN THE U. S. SENATE, IF ELECTED FROM MISSISSIPPI.

The little mendicant, O'Meara, is in the habit of turning up his pug nose at laboring men. He has been frequently known to refuse to sit at the same table with honest sons of toil, merely because they were laborers.—Albany Journal.

The reason assigned by the fastidious and aristocratic bummer for refusing to sit at the table with working men is, that they have a "sweaty smell." There are dozens of men who have heard him use that expression in a contemptuous way.

Go and hear Gov. Gibbs and Col. Hawkins to-day.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO MAY 27.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The whiskey and tobacco interests are represented almost daily before the Ways and Means Committee. The delegates representing the whiskey distillers are urging the reduction of the tax to one dollar per gallon on distilled spirits. They claim that the manufacturers and the Government would be largely benefited. The House, during the consideration of the tax bill, had a long debate on domestic wines. The Senate talked of omitting the tax of three cents per gallon, but the House refused. Mr. Morrill, of Vermont, said the revenue from that source last year amounted to $130,000.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—In the Senate, Mr. Williams, of Oregon, introduced a bill granting lands to aid the construction of a railroad and telegraph from Salt Lake to the Columbia river. The bill opening the public lands in Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Florida to settlement under the Homestead laws, without regard to color, and extending the act to late rebels who take the oath of allegiance, was debated and passed. Mr. Sherman spoke for two hours in advocating the bill for consolidating the public debt.

The House passed the Bankruptcy bill reported last Thursday—the bill reported by a select committee, and which differs from the former bill only in some slight particulars—yeas 69, nays 57.

The House had an elaborate debate on the tobacco tax, and agreed on the following rates: On cavendish plug and twist, 60 cents per pound; on fine cut, 40 cents; cigars, $4 per thousand, and 40 per cent. ad valorem; provided, the first ten dollars valuation be not abated.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Senate took up the reconstruction question. Mr. Sumner, of Mass., urged delay, declaring the country had gained much by postponement already. Mr. Fessenden, of Maine, and Mr. Conness, of California, opposed postponement. Mr. Howard, of Michigan, opened the debate, speaking for two hours in defence of the plan as reported by the committee. Several amendments were offered, and ordered printed.

The House passed a joint resolution to pay letter carriers in San Francisco additional salary, on motion of Bidwell of Cal.; the Commissioner on Agriculture was discharged from the further consideration of the bill donating public lands to the American Forest Company for conducting experiments in forest tree culture. The special Commission having in charge the subject of consolidating the Telegraph system with the Post Office Department will make some important recommendations to the Senate relative to it, but will not go so far as to advocate the proposition that the government shall take control of the various telegraph lines. The Postmaster General is adverse to such legislation, and has written to that effect. The Connecticut Senate elected O. S. Ferry U. S. Senator by the full party vote.

Report on Jeff. Davis' Health.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Dr. Geo. Cooper, post surgeon at Fortress Monroe, reports the result of the medical examination of Jeff Davis, made in compliance with the instructions of the President. He says, Davis is comfortably conducting, but his nervous system greatly deranged. Want of sleep has been the great and almost the principal cause of his nervous excitement. This is produced by the tramp of sentinels, and the guard relief almost invariably awakes him. He has scarcely enjoyed over two hours of unbroken sleep since his confinement. Promotions have been taken by the surgeon by placing matting along the sentry walks to alleviate this source of disturbance but with only partial success.

Great Fire in New York—Loss of Ten Lives.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The Academy of Music and several other buildings including the Medical University and a Lutheran Church were destroyed by fire last night, which commenced in the Academy of Music an hour after the performances of Grover's Opera company. One steam engine was burned and ten firemen are reported killed. The loss is estimated at from three to four millions.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The Academy of Music was valued at $175,000. The ins by the fire will not exceed $1,000,000.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—It is believed here that an offer of mediation, between Spain and the South American Republics would be agreeable to the countries.

Speech of Secretary Seward.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Secretary Seward made a speech at Auburn, New York, last night saying: "The National life lately hung on the issue of victory won in war. It still hangs upon the issue of reconciliation and peace. The nation must live. It must live forever whether it receives the needful care in any exigency at the hands of our present Congress, or party, or at the hands of another. I agree that it is more desirable that the work so happily begun and so successfully prosecuted shall be continued, and indeed under the auspices of the National Union party, and of the President and Congress as representatives of that party. I agree, therefore, that it would be a sad misfortune if the divergences between the President and Congress should work the decline and downfall of the National Union party. Both the President and Congress might well be expected to be equally involved in the calamity which should dismiss the Union party from the National Councils, and see with mortification the great responsibility to which the party had in that case, proves itself unequal, and the duties which must then be assumed and discharged by some new and yet undeveloped political organization. But the President, Congress, statesmen and parties are of no avail when we weigh them against the national life. What then does the nation need? It needs reconstruction, and just needs nothing more. Let reconstruction be made first rather in Congress than in any of the constituencies, and it will follow in the other place. The country exhibits at this moment this extraordinary and interesting phenomena of States, not only kindred but allied, yet hostile to each other. For such a condition, reconciliation is the only practical remedy. What hinders the application of that remedy is the legislative councils. The President's position is absolutely so lately and universally understood. We can not require less than this. We cannot require more, because then if more were desirable, that more it is debatable, and must be the study and work not of ourselves at this particular period, but of ourselves and our successors hereafter.

The President and Cabinet were serenaded to-night by the National Club. Secretary Stanton being called upon at his residence, read a speech from a manuscript. He had been in favor of qualified negro suffrage and the organization of the Southern States, by calm and full discussion. He yielded to the universal arguments resting upon the practical difficulties, and to be encountered in such measures, and to the President's conviction that to prescribe rules of suffrage was not within the legitimate scope of his power. Concurring, however, in the objects of the Freedmen's Bureau bill, and regarding the power therein conferred as temporary and in safe hands, he avowed its approval; but having been returned to Congress with the President's objections, and having failed to receive the necessary support, it is no longer a living measure nor the subject of debate. Without giving his personal views thereon, the Secretary took up the Congressional plan of reconstruction. He declared he had been able to give it his assent, particularly that referring to the proposed disfranchisement until 1870. He said the elements of change are at work in the South, stimulating one side to loyalty and the other to continued hostility. In his judgment, every indictment to union should be cherished.

The President and other Secretaries made only brief acknowledgment.

Mexican News.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Details of the engagement between the Liberals under Corona and the Imperial garrison at Mazatlan show that the Liberals gained a brilliant victory, and that Corona is now master of the garrison, having attacked and routed Another co-operative expedition. Ortega, the opponent of Juarez, proposes to enter Mexico from California. A letter from General Brenick, commander of the French at Matamoras is published. He says he believes the Imprrial rule by no means popular and that its relations with the United states are threatening; he prefers taking leave of it with no expectation of returning.

Foreign.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The steamer City of Boston brings advices to May 17th: Consols 89⅝@89¾ for money, 5.20's 65¾@66. Cotton dull with little enquiry. The London Shipping Gazette of the morning of the 16th announced that the Bank of England has raised the rate of interest for advances on stocks to 12 per cent, in consequence of the great pressure for assistance in the shape for speculative account on the stock exchange. The Continental situation is unchanged. There are, however, more pacific rumors from Paris and the chances of a European Congress are improving.

Prussia and Italy are said to have assented (?) The Austrian reply has not been received.

Several French journals have received warnings for representing that the Government is preparing for war.

La France says many diplomatic notes have been exchanged between the Cabinets during the suspense, and the idea of a Congress limited to the consideration of pending questions has been again taken up.

Le Opinion Nationale thinks Italy would accept a Congress under those two unsettled conditions. She may remain armed, and the cession of Venetia may be included in the programme of the Congress.

A Berlin dispatch of the 15th says a conditional treaty of alliance was signed on Saturday between Prussia and Italy.

The correspondence between the King of Prussia and the Czar is believed to have been connected with the creation of a Duchy of Warsaw, and it is declared that the Czar has not interfered in favor of peace.

A Milan telegram states that 2,000 Austrian sailors had arrived at Venice for the defense of the Lagunes, and that orders have been issued to organize a body of 1,200 boatmen for transporting soldiers to the island of Lido, and 2,000 Austrian troops had passed through the Masetra at the mouth of the river Po. Deputy for the Austria military service in Venetia have been established at Triest, and a considerable force is in the Tyrol. The garrison of Venice is to be raised to 2,400. Gunboats have been stationed and many torpedoes in the outer harbor of Venice. A Paris telegram says the Austrian squadron had left the Bay of Lavrontes and taken position in the Adriatic between Ancona and the island of Grosza, thereby closing the Gulf of Quarrenta.

It is reported that Bismarck receives daily warnings of imminent danger of assassination.

It is stated that Austria in a few weeks, will have 900,000 men in the field. Large bodies of troops had already affected strategetic concentration on the Prussian frontier. A Frankfort telegram says a motion will shortly be introduced in the Diet for the mobilization of the army. It will be proposed that Austria and Prussia be called upon to withdraw their troops from the fortresses of Mentz and Rastadt, that they are to be occupied by Federal forces. A Munich telegram says that the Government of Bavaria and Baden Baden, are in favor of armed neutrality. The bombardment of Valparaiso had been noticed with indignation, but the action of the British Admiral was defended and fully endorsed by the Government. The English press and people loudly denounce the course of Spain. An indignation meeting held at Liverpool, adopted resolutions expressing gratitude for the assertions of Commodore Rogers.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—The Coroner held an inquest yesterday on the body of Colonel Ross. The testimony did not show a single extenuating circumstance, it being clearly proven that Ross was shot down in cold blood from behind, without even seeing his assassin, while he was unarmed. John Dunn came down the street a little in advance of his brother, turned and spoke in a whisper to Charles, then passed Ross, then turned round and killed him. As it would not be safe for either of them to be seen outside of the jail, no attempt to get either of them out on bail will be made.

A fire occurred this morning in the steam flouring mill belonging to Kentucky & Hopkinson, Gold street. The loss on the buildings was $15,000; insured for $1,000. 200 barrels of flour, 500 tons of feed, 20,000 new sacks, with other property to the total value of $25,000, were destroyed.

Arrived—Steamer Sierra Nevada from Portland; ship Harry Bluff, 128 days from New York; bark Emma C. Reed, 140 days from Boston.

There was a large attendance at the funeral of Colonel Ross to-day.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29.—No later gold quotations received. Greenbacks inactive at 75@ 76. The Sierra Nevada will carry the smallest list of passengers which has left on any steamer for two years. The treasure list on the other hand will be by far the largest. Gold bars advanced to $19 and silver remains at 1½, and 1¾ premium. The government express has been hauled off between Drum Barracks and Fort Mohave, and Lt. Pay is now the point to which letters for the upper Colorado Valley will be directed. Gen. Mason recently in command of Arizona, will arrive here next week to report for orders. It is feared that P. B. Smith who was in charge of the building of the Bay View Park, destroyed by fire on Saturday night last, perished in the flames, as he has been missing since the fire. The building originally cost $12,000 and was insured for $6,000. It had been rented for a year or more. The agency of the Commercial Bank of India and the East, in this city, has been discontinued. The case of Dr. Cogswell charged with attempting to defraud the government by returning an income of only $3,000, when it is alleged he received over $13,000, is being investigated before the U. S. Commissioner. His books and papers having been seized by the revenue officers.

FROM THE NORTH.

VICTORIA, V. I., May 30.—The steamer California from San Francisco, arrived this morning, and will leave tomorrow morning for New Westminster.

News has just reached town that sixteen men were drowned in Death's Rapids, Columbia river on Saturday the 19th, by the upsetting of a boat, only six out of twenty-two were saved. All the drowned were Victorians with the exception of the following: Merrick Miller, of Greenwood Valley; R. Melson, of Dretown, Amador Co., California; A. L. Grint, formerly of Ohio, and C. O. Kirby, formerly of Canada.

Montana News.

The following items are from the Radiator of May 19th:

THE GREEK DOMINION.

J. W. Keenan, with four men, is cleaning up from $150 to $250 per day, to the sluice, in the south creek Johns, with same force, from one to two hundred. The claim on Bill Gulch, in which Charley Madden is interested, yielded $600 with one rocker, one day last week. Pres. Standefer, Esq. Wood, Bad Halsey, and others have been doing well, in a cousin, near the head of Stinking Bad Gulch; but it is about to "pinch" out.

All reports is making good wages in Dry's Gulch; Peter, the nihilist well in the Bachelor office, has gone for down the creek, and thinks he has twelve dollar days. There are thousands of others whose prospects I am not posted on.

More gold has been exhibited during the week than is usual in this town. Many coarse pieces have been packed up. Wheelock & McBride picked up $100 or over in lumps in in the ground sluice. Charley Madden's claim has paid between six and seven thousand dollars within two weeks.

Pritchard and Barlow's train, which left Humboldt Oct. 14th, arrived here yesterday, being only six months and ten days. They wintered on Horse Prairie, and lost twenty-four horses.

John Hildreth has found a ledge of good looking rock, well defined, and many feet thick, beyond the Biffy Wessel.

A stampede took place last night. "Oregon John" and Frank Trimble were prospecting on Saturday, near the head of Deep Gulch, when John fell down on the crust of the snow and broke through. Taking the circumstance for a lucky indication they sank a hole and found good prospects; hence the stampede.

Dunlap & Ruddell have started a storage and commission house in town. The packers all know "Jock," and they will do well.

Fairchild has laid out a city at the mouth of the Jocko in the name Savage, Abrams, & Co., and calls it Jocko City. The same firm, through the same agent will establish another town at the Pen d'Oreille Falls, and another at Cabinet Rapids, and secure the portages at these places.

A FANTASTIC CASE.—O'Fay, the Democratic candidate for Congress, is a "plunny" fellow. When he resided in Astoria, some years ago, he was in the habit of getting drunk and marching through the streets with a whole belt of gaudy ribbon tied on his hat and arms and around his body. We have this from one who witnessed his antics. —Albany Journal.

That is nothing. We have seen him drunk in Jacksonville, riding a billiard cue all over town, like a little boy with his first pair of boots astride his mother's broom. "Candid Jon" would explain that by saying he was slightly insane. Does Oregon want to send a lunatic to Congress?—Statesman.

MEETING OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—The regular weekly meeting of the Common Council was held last evening at the Council Chamber

Present—Councilmen Lownsdale, Watkins, Plummer, Loomis, Thompson, McCraken, Stinnebleby and Mayor Failing, in the Chair

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A petition was received from the City Treasurer praying for authority to purchase a new set of books; prayer granted.

E. Cooper & Co petitioned for extension of time in building; granted

L. & D. Simmons asked for an extension of time for the completion of their contract for the improvement of Madison Street, which was granted.

J. H. Keller asked for the use of First street for building purposes; granted

S. Slemmons was granted use of Front street for moving a house.

Councilman D P S. Plummer tendered his resignation as a member of the Council, which, on motion, was laid on the table.

The following bills were ordered paid: J. McNamee, $275; J. H. Perry & Co., $1,547 26; L. & D. Simmons, $4[illegible]; J. Tucker, $75; Ladd & Tilton, $473; A. G. Walling, printing, $10; H. L. Pittock, printing, $37 50; H. L. Hyde, for sitting 14 dogs, $50; Jos. Tucker, for work on No. 2 engine house, $25; Patterson Ward and Sam Jones, for marshal's services, $100 each; J. T. Gerow, for work on the scow-bowed dredger, $63; P. Ryan, for work on public dock, $30; J. H. Perry & Co., $90; T. J. Johnson, $23 50; D. Monnastes, for work on cisterns, $105 10

An Ordinance for the benefit of the Fire Department was taken up and indefinitely postponed

An Ordinance adopting the report of the City Surveyor relating to the extension of North Ninth and North Tenth streets, was read first and second times; and on motion, the rules were suspended and the ordinance passed

An Ordinance to amend Ordinance No. 332, read first and second time, rules suspended and passed

On motion, warrants were ordered to be placed in the hands of the City Marshal for the collection of delinquent street repairs for the improvement of Madison street

Ordered that three viewers be appointed to superintend the opening of North Ninth and North Tenth streets, and on motion the chair appointed Josiah Failing, W. S. Ladd and H. Johnson to act in said capacity. Ordered to meet at the Council Chamber June 6th at 10 o'clock

The City Auditor was ordered to make out for collection the [illegible] for the improvement of First street.

The Auditor was instructed to draw warrants for the amount of claims for the improvement of Madison street in front of the Plaza.

Notice for a change of the grade of Morrison street published. [The notice appears in our advertising columns this morning.]

On motion, Council adjourned.

SAN FRANCISCO WILL CELEBRATE.—The San Francisco Board of Supervisors have unanimously adopted the following resolution, looking forward to a proper commemoration of the anniversary of the birthday of freedom:

"That a committee of three be appointed by the President of the Board, to call a meeting of the citizens of San Francisco, to make the necessary arrangements in connection with a committee to be appointed by the citizens, for the proper observance and celebration of the approaching anniversary of our National Independence, provided, the committee appointed in pursuance of this resolution, be, and are hereby authorized to contract for such public exhibitions as may in their discretion be deemed requisite, the cost of which is not to exceed the amount allowed to be appropriated by law."

UNION CLUB.—The Union Club was addressed last evening by W. D. Hare, Esq., of Hillsboro, in an excellent speech. Col. Hawkins was also present, and made a few remarks which were received with applause. It is understood that Col. Hawkins will address the Club again at their rooms this evening. Let all turn out to hear him. This appointment will not interfere with that of Gov. Gibbs and Col. Hawkins to-day at the Theatre at one o'clock.

THE DEDICATION OF ORO FINO HALL.—We must be excused this morning for not furnishing a full account of the grand ball and concert given at Oro Fino Hall last night, in dedication of that fine building. A general good time was had, and the occasion was eminently successful in every particular.

ODD HALLS.—Gov. Gibbs and Col. Hawkins will address the citizens of Portland at half-past one this afternoon, at the theatre. Let us turn out and give these champions of our principles such a reception as Union men should receive, and only Union men can give. Seats will be reserved for the ladies. Let them all come.

THE CELEBRATION.—The presentation of an Irish flag to the Shamrock Guard by the Ladies of Portland, which was to have taken place this evening at Oro Fino Hall, has been postponed till some time next week, of which due notice will be given.

A LECTURE.—There will be speaking at the school house near Mr. Kelly's, east of Portland, on Saturday evening. C. Reed, Esq., and others will address the meeting.

HIGH WATER.—The ferry boat now runs to within less than a mile of the Insane Asylum. Small crafts can come up to Milwaukie. The rise in the river yesterday was eight inches above that of Tuesday.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS.—The spile driver was employed yesterday in making improvements at the East Portland landing for the ferry boat.

HOME AGAIN.—The steamer Francis Tromp yesterday made an extra trip to Portland, on urgent business connected with the Military District of the Columbia.

SAD MISTAKE.—The little son of Capt. Smith is yet living, and the prevailing opinion is that he has been [illegible]

INSANE.—An insane man was brought to the Asylum yesterday, from some part of the Willamette valley.

THE MONTANA arrived at San Francisco on Wednesday night. She will probably sail Saturday.

THERE is a vacancy for John S. Meggs at the telegraph office.

Where are the Peace Democracy?

The voice of every Democratic journalist and orator is now for war. Where is the peace party? For several years peace and submission was the only true gospel. Even the Union formed by our fathers was not to be preserved, if it was to cost a drop of blood to save it. Democracy insisted on turning the other cheek to the smiter, and in magnanimously forcing the cloak upon him who had foolishly taken the coat. But now every Democrat is for war. They are thoroughly disgusted with these piping times of peace. Mr. Johnson is willing to let a little—yes, a good deal of blood. Democracy is panting for it. Nothing but death's head with its gory locks will propitiate the peace Democracy. But every Democrat filled with a mighty resolution never to engage a person in the bloody business. It is the shoddy and the danger attending it that makes them hard to restrain. How they would delight to witness the slaughter of the Abolitionists if Johnson could only be so kind as to undertake the job and not send the Democratic heroes into the midst of the danger.

Upper Columbia News.

The following items are from the Walla Walla Statesman.

A little child of Mr. William Knight, living on the Upper Touchet, aged about two years, was drowned in a pail on Saturday last.

Under the impulse of the Big Bend excitement, Colville has become a place of considerable activity and gives signs of [illegible]ement. One of the indications of progress is the erection of a large hotel by Dr. L. L. Tobey, which is to be a great accommodation to the traveling public, combining the spirit of the times, the farmers of the Valley have "seeded" much larger quantities of grain this spring than usual. The report that the soldiers at Fort Colville have deserted had gone to the mines is without foundation. No desertions, all told, took up mine-ward.

We are told that the crickets are making their appearance in vast numbers in different sections of the valley. It is even feared that they are so numerous that the farmers or they will greatly injure, if not entirely destroy their crops. They are said to be by far, more plentiful than they have been any former season since the settlement of the valley. They are not yet more than half grown, and it will require a month to determine whether the fears inspired by their destroying crops are to be realized.

The Herald spends much space in the endeavor to show that Mr. Grover has always been a consistent, unselfish member of the Democratic party. Now if the Herald editors, instead of being newly imported "political vagrants" just from the service of treason in various capacities, (as editors of secession newspapers, rebel guerrillas, etc.), were men who know anything of the political history of this State, they would be able to avoid many of the blunders they fall into. As it is, they know nothing more of Oregon politics than loyal men here know of their base conduct and wicked practices in behalf of treason and the rebellion.

LET THE CUPPERHEADS PRAY, ALSO.—The Christian Observer, a Southern religious paper, remarks "the praying people of the South that it is their special duty to pray for Jefferson Davis. Surely he is in prison and in peril because of what we have done. He would not have been there if we had not made him our chief. Will the praying people of the South forget him in these trying hours?"

BLESSED RAIN.—The vernal showers fall copiously this season. So do those beautiful PICTURES from ELSWORTH & CARDWELL'S GALLERY, 89 Front Street. CARD PHOTOGRAPHS and all other styles are taken in the most superior manner at this Establishment.

AN UNFAILING REMEDY.—"BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are widely known as an established remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, and other troubles of the Throat and Lungs. Their good reputation and extensive use has brought out imitations, represented to be the same. CAUTION only "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, heartburn, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, dizziness after eating, torpid liver, constipation &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supercede all other tonics when a healthy, good stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate
They create a healthy appetite
They are an antidote to change of water and diet
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhœa and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are estimated nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, serpentina, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle

Beware of imposters. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U S Stamp immutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an imposter. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c, who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c, is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores

The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the imitation of those marks, by counterfeit or imitations of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. Speech of Hon. W. W. Upton.

DELIVERED BEFORE THE MULTNOMAH UNION CLUB, ON MONDAY EVENING, MAY 29, 1866.

(Concluded.)

Not long ago there were secessionists all over the State; open, avowed, rampant; now there is but here and there one that avows his sentiments. The entire people are here; they support the same political party; are held together by the same influences, but how can any one refuse to be a Union man now? In the year 1864, when even Multnomah Union men who were electing Lincoln and Johnson? They were not all silent. Absent at the Chicago Convention receiving that far near a fullness, that the Union army ought to suspend action and vield up the hard-fought fields to let the Peace Democrats make a treaty of amity with our erring sisters. Though the erring sisters "were on the carpet," and were dealing out slaughter to all who sustained the Government, yet the Chicago Convention counseled us to suspend hostilities on one side; though every gun Floyd had stolen, was still blazing on our soldiers with all the fury treason could engender, they were tender to and the erring sisters and their allies of the Vallandigham and Ben Wood stripe. They deprecated the war and counseled the people to yield the contest, but now they are all converts to the cause of the Union. They now propose that we place these new converts in office and put reconstruction and future legislation under their hands like protection—pure, innocent, recently converted lambs of the fold. This proposition beats the wisdom and clarity of the Chicago Convention.

I am glad to see the Democratic party attempting to construct Union platforms. The work is awkward at first, but time will improve. It will familiarize them with what their diseased imaginations have so abhorred for a few years past, and in time I trust they will come to see that Union principles are not so bad, and I hope they may become true friends and supporters of our national government, and willing to abide by constitutional majorities. But the friends of the Union are not yet prepared to trust the protection of our institutions to a party entirely dependent for its power and existence on those who so lately lent all their energies to destroy those institutions. The Democratic party has a right to be represented in the National Councils; we want to see every State in the full exercise of all its functions both in protecting its own special interests, and in supporting the whole edifice, but we do not want faithful and true citizens of the United States—nor any State of the Union—misrepresented nor falsely represented. If the States are in the Union, they are in as Union States, and not as parts of no Republic—and as such cannot be antagonistic to it. For that reason disloyal men cannot in truth or in fact be the representatives of States any more than a State can commit treason. The attempt is a contradiction; the presence of a disloyal man representing a State of our Republic is a mockery to all true men; a mockery to every man in those States who has any right to demand representation; a mockery to the principles of republican government. We desire equal representation for every part of the nation, and that with the least possible delay. We desire to hasten it, but we would not hasten it at the risk of the principle itself. We would not for the sake of haste risk the destruction of the very principles we contend for, which would have the effect of permitting traitors to occupy seats in Congress, and thus misrepresent and attempt to overthrow the principles of the Government.

Mr. Fay in his speech at Portland during this canvass said, "If a majority of the people of a State are traitors they will not usually elect a traitor to represent them." And "the person elected would be the most treasonable he is a traitor, for Congress has no power to investigate the political opinions of the men whom the people elect."

A man that is opposed to the Union can not be truly represented in it. If that man's true representative was in Congress, he would be liable to expulsion as soon as he began to embody his sentiments into acts.

Who are they that clamor for immediate representation, without investigation? Are they not the very men who voluntarily withdrew and refused to be represented. For four years they held themselves out at the point of the bayonet. Now suddenly they lower the weapon and declare they are thirsty not. They lay down the musket and demand immediate admission. Call you this a struggle of oppression, and revenge? Restoration, reconstruction and pardon has gone on with immense strides. In a few short months, the whole revolted people have been restored to nearly all the privileges due to innocent men.

The angel of mercy, if her eyes were two rivers of water, could hardly have made much progress in blotting out sins. Justice has not only been blind, but deaf and dumb, and as quiescent as a peace democrat at a soldier's funeral.

The iniquity of years of conspiracy against our nation's existence, the devastations of war, the fate of a martyred President, the starving of prisoners, the slaughter of hundreds of thousands of heroic dead, who sleep the sleep that knows no waking, all have been laid out of the account, and the whole power of the government has been devoted to mercy, forgiveness, restoration. What thanks do we find in the hearts of those lately vanished and now pardoned? They say the government is tyrannical, wasteful and extravagant. Did you ever estimate what it would have cost in heap to have executed the letter of the law, and furnished every clear case of actual treason, if tell you at the present price of hemp parlons have saved a vast amount of money in the article alone. When leniency and pardon have exceeded all precedent, they call the government tyrannical. "Tyrants should be made of sterner stuff." Too progress already made in reconstruction is unexampled, and in striking contrast with the spirit exhibited by pardoned rebels. While as much time has been spent rebuilding States, and State constitutions was employed in attempting to destroy them, it will do to talk of delays.

In considering differences of opinion on this subject it must be remembered that reconstruction is not provided for by fundamental law. This monstrous war, by the people of entire States, upon the government, was never contemplated by the framers of the constitution, and they made no provision for the position or manner of return of States in such case. The war has created a condition of things that fundamental law has not foreseen or provided for, and it is natural there should be differences of opinion about the mode of accomplishing what is called reconstruction.

The question relates to the time and mode of admitting members of Congress and Senators from the States lately in revolt. I say the time and mode, for there is no question about the thing itself, they all agree that those States should be represented as soon as it can be done with safety to the country.

It is claimed, and not without reason, that during the pendency of the war the President may, as Commander-in-Chief, appoint civil governors and take initiatory steps to institute civil government. That his proclamation is sufficient authority for calling elections, and that through those means a disorganized people may again become a State. But this be taken as conceded and still somewhere and by some means different be judged and determined at what point of time or progress such disorganized people have reached their former status. The question is, who is to judge of this? The constitution gives the President no power or jurisdiction over the question. It is a question upon which his opinion is not official.

Now I ask you, has Congress any right to permit such vacant seat to be filled until the right is determined in some way?

It is also claimed that where a State constitution is trampled under foot by its own people, and has become a dead letter, when the constitutional and municipal law of the State has ceased to be operative, organization cannot be initiated without legislation all the legislative power of the United States being vested in Congress and the President. That there must be a State government to constitute a State entitled to representation by self-evident. To claim representation as a strict right the State must be legally organized; in other words it must be a State in fact as well as in name.

Some of these States are still ruled in part by a standing army, and all are in a transition state from military to civil rule. Here is a question on which the constitution is silent. How is it to be settled? Not by theorizing, for theory presupposes some established rule or law that can govern the subject. Not by courts, for courts have never refused to determine political questions, that is, questions of national legislation without a rule of action.

A man who will not claim that each of these States, as a strict right, was entitled to representation in Congress while they were under the rule of the Southern Confederacy and at war with the United States. Now if there was a period when by their own acts they had ceased to be entitled to representation, the question is, when did that condition cease? Did their rightful representation recommence the day they surrendered, or the day Jeff Davis was captured, or when they had held the first subsequent election? Or when the President issued a proclamation for peace, or when the army shall be no longer necessary to keep the States in peace? When the President shall hereafter cause it to be withdrawn, or at some other event? Here is a question the Constitution does not decide nor authorise the President to decide. Can any thing less than the law-making power of the United States decide it, where the Constitution is silent? The new question that is thrust upon us by the war is a practical question, and we are compelled to look at it in a practical manner and to do what we think the Constitution requires and permits, and what in justice ought to be done. If it is safe to withdraw the armies and admit members now, it ought to be done now. If the safety of the country would be endangered there can be no circumstances that would justify it.

When man say it is safe at the present time, I will say to them, that is a question of facts, and thousands of good men as well informed as themselves think otherwise, and I am not disposed to risk the safety of what has cost so much blood and treasure upon their assertion without investigation. Neither they or we possess sufficient evidence on this point to justify the risk. If they say that immediate representation is a constitutional right, and to withhold it is unconstitutional, or because the investigation proves it unsafe, is an unconstitutional denial of rights.

I will say to them their proposition is not true as a matter of law or fact, it is entirely unfounded. I will not risk safety to avoid inconvenience, and be opposed by an unbroken chain of precedents ranging from the adoption of the Constitution to the present time, and confirmed by nearly or quite every Congress that has convened in the time. The whole theory and practice in all the departments of the Government is against it. Whenever the right to a seat in Congress is questioned it has been the practice to take time for investigation. And it has never been claimed that a State was wronged by the delay. Whenever the claim has been found defective it has been rejected, and though the State was temporarily deprived of Representatives, it has never been claimed that the State was wronged. There is no civil right that men or States enjoy that is not subject to be suspended in cases of public necessity, or when required by public safety. In times of war it is lawful to suspend all civil law. If the President or any high officer is impeached, he is guilty or he be innocent, his official rights and functions are suspended for investigation. What civil right is more secure than that of personal liberty, or what is more jealously guarded in our Constitutions, both State and national? But we should consider that man lunatic who seriously argues that it could not be suspended for the purpose of investigation, or that when an innocent man is charged with crime, it is a violation of his rights to detain him for investigation. We hold that so long as there is a doubt of safety to the nation, investigation is an imperative duty, and no private rights or State rights are paramount to this duty.

Democrats advise you to abandon the great Union organization that crushed the rebellion by sustaining the war, and to commence a crusade on each other on questions of race, and means, and politics; to commence a war on each other about who shall be governed, or who shall be fed, or how traitors shall be treated after their defeat. This would first rebuild into power, and place in their keeping the free institutions It is our privilege and duty to defend. It would be a stain on our country that could never be obliterated.

Democrats are fond of misrepresenting the civil rights bill. What there is in its provisions that is either unconstitutional or unjust they fail to tell us. They say much that is untrue of it, but fail to show us what wrong it establishes or what right it conflicts with. These are many falsehoods put afloat about its provisions, but they need no answer in this intelligent, reading community. The bill has been published in the papers generally. It is plain and simple, direct and clear in its provisions. Every one can understand it. It gives to the negro and others born in the United States, the right to acquire and hold property, to make and enforce contracts, to sue for injuries, to give evidence and to be sworn in person and property. And it prohibits the being punished by a different rule from that prescribed for white men; and it goes no further. No language is too strong to characterize the baseness of men who seek to deceive honest voters by pretending that the civil rights bill confers upon negroes the right to vote. It confers no right on males that it does not confer on females. When it confers any right, uses it the words "every person born," &c., and if it makes a negro a voter, it makes a woman and a child a voter.

The bill does not meddle with the question of suffrage The whole ambulance and effect of the bill is the reverse to legislation. That pyramid of legal skill and common known as the Dred Scott decision, constructed by declaring that a negro was not a citizen, contrary to all decisions courts had before made—and aided by declaring that a free negro, though unlawfully held in slavery, could not be permitted to show or prove that he was free. What reason can they give against permitting a weak and infortunate people the right to ask for the prevention or redress of the wrongs they are perpetually liable to, like others, be subjected to, and give such evidence as they are capable of before an enlightened court or jury, leaving it, as the law does, to the court or jury to determine how far the evidence is to be believed.

Now, who is injured by the provisions of this bill? If there is in any white man who is afraid of having sent the nigger, he may have something to fear from the bill. If there is any white man who is afraid the nigger's evidence will outweigh his before a court or jury, he too may be in some danger. Or if there is any white man whose manner he is so shattered that it is in danger of being demolished by negro testimony, he may have cause of apprehension.

It is upon no part of the policy or sentiment of the Union party to cherish feelings of revenge. The nation has only fidelity to the principles of national union and free government. The great principle of mercy and charity teaches us to welcome the repentant prodigal, and Lets already trampled show that we have been killing the fatted calf for days. There is in Union men a determined feeling in favor of the misguided men and women to all who truly return to the support of the Government. But when men talk of rights, neither precedent nor the Constitution fixes the time when a State that has refused for four years to be represented—has withdrawn her representatives, and held them out at the point of the bayonet—can know the right to and demand recognition. When a Confederate soldier lays down his musket and comes to the halls of Congress, we want to know whether he was in earnest when he laid down his arms. We want to know whether he is authorized to represent a State of this Union, or merely to represent men who threaten and defy the Union. When he comes to take his oath, we cannot forget that all his predecessors had taken the oath at the time they were helping Buchanan's Cabinet to destroy the nation. We wish to welcome the returning prodigal whenever he returns in good faith. But if he comes with his stomach still stuffed with the husks on which he fed in the Southern Confederacy, to feast on the fatted calf would inevitably neglect or derange his digestion. When he comes for pardon and representation, if he is still breathing threats and defiance to the Government, I am in favor of giving him time to consider who were in this war, and who lost.

The leaders of the bolting Democracy who lost the election by the defeat of Breckinridge, resorted to war. They tried an experiment that cost what of life and treasure the world can tell, and their experiment failed. One would think with the check with which they proposed themselves and their party to reconstruct, that which they thought they had won—that the experiment was a success. When of old, the prodigal son returned, he traveled a great distance before he reached his father's home, and it is true, in point, "a long road to travel," He seemed to consider his experiment a failure. He made no imperious demands. A returned prodigal of those days was a dull gentleman compared with a returned Confederate. If he had been defeated up to the second standard, when the old gentleman came out to meet him, he would have walked him with a bullet, cut the throat of the calumniating old woman and burned that grumbling brother out of Goore. He would have sworn it was all their fault, he being driven off into a far country, while they were vitiating and depriving him of representation.

With some men facts are nothing, pretensions are everything. So test these matters, there is nothing so reliable as the record of the past.

The Democracy are determined to forget there has been a war. They never mention it unnecessarily, and if ever they do, it is as if it were in the distant past and, among things long forgotten. They keep it out of sight. They never remember that our party was defeated. They never speak of any bonus having first been paid to the rebels. If they mention it, it is to say that money was squandered in carrying it on, to complain of the bonds that were issued, or to laud the bravery of the Confederate soldiers. They must be reminded that Breckinridge Democracy went into the field there. Independent State Sovereignty went in. The right to secede went in. Threats to revolutionize, went into that war. The idea of carrying points by bluffing, blustering and threatening all went into that war to win, and they came out vanquished.

Don't forget that some things were fought for in that war, and some things were lost, and some other things were successful, and among the successful, was the perpetuity of national union and the principle of Constitutional majorities.

Union Meeting at Lewiston.

At a meeting of the Union citizens of Lewiston and vicinity, Idaho Territory, held at the store of E. A. Starr, Esq., on Saturday evening, May 19th, for the purpose of organizing the Union party of Nez Perce county, Levi Antony, Esq., was chosen Chairman, and Frank Dalton, Esq., Secretary.

On motion it was resolved that a committee of seven members be appointed by the meeting, which should be a County Central Committee.

The names of Watson A. Belcher, Levi Antony and Harold Lecave, of Lewiston; L. P. Brown, of Mount Idaho; Lot Wiggins, of Clearwater Station; J. G. Zeigle, of Elk City, and A. McGregory, of King Bar, were nominated, and on motion, declared duly elected to be the Union County Central Committee.

On motion, the County Central Committee were instructed to appoint three delegates for Nez Perce county to the Union Territorial Delegate Convention, which meets 22d day of June, 1866.

On motion, Watson A. Belcher, D. Isaacs and Levi Antony were chosen to be an Executive Committee.

On motion, it was resolved that the Secretary of this meeting be instructed to furnish the Oregonian with a copy of the minutes of this meeting for publication.

Adjourned sine die.

The following certificate is from men who are perfectly reliable, and responsible for what they say:

SALEM, May 27, 1866.

We, the undersigned citizens of Marion county, hereby certify that we heard N. T. Caton, Esq., a Democratic lawyer of Salem, state in the clerk's office of said county, on about the 8th of May, 1866, that he (Caton) was the man who organized the "Old Guard" Society in Polk county; that it was organized for the purpose of preventing any more arrests of their men by the military authorities of the United States; that they were prepared to resist such authorities; and that if another arrest had been made like that of Fullerton (Fullerton was arrested for rejoicing over the assassination of President Lincoln), they would have resisted, and there would have been trouble.

Voters of Oregon, the proof of Democratic conspiracy in Oregon, in behalf of treason, is full, conclusive and overwhelming.

If you are not ready yet to be represented in Congress and in the executive and legislative branches of the state Government, by convicted traitors, you must not vote for the Democratic candidates, for they were implicated in treason confessed by Tom Caton, the Grand Secretary of the "Old Guard."—Statesman.

State Items.

The Jacksonville Reporter says: "Governor Curl, who resides on Antelope creek, in this county, took his horse and gun and went hunting on Friday, the 11th inst., since which time he has not been heard of. He started for the mouth of Bear creek. Search has been made for him but without success. Curl is a married man with two children, and his family are in great anxiety for his safety."

Jacob Conser is the Democratic candidate for State Senator from Marion county, in place of Mr. Whitney who promptly declined when placed in nomination. Conser acted with the Union party till Sam. Hendrick lost him for the nomination of Sheriff in 1862.

Captain Small's company of Cavalry has been mustered out, Captain Luddiett's company of Infantry is daily expected to arrive at Vancouver for muster-out. We learn that Captain Williams is under orders to report at Vancouver for muster-out, but will probably not get down for two or three weeks yet.

The Mountaineer of the 26th says: "The river at this point has been at a stand still since last night. From parties who came from above yesterday we learn that Snake river was falling rapidly."

The semi-annual meeting of the Marion county Medical Society will be held at Salem on the last Tuesday of January next. Quarterly meetings are to be held on the last Tuesdays of July and October. Members of the press are invited to attend the meetings.

A SOUTHERN OPINION.—John Forsythe, a distinguished and experienced Southern politician and now editing the Mobile Register, in a late issue of his paper reviewed the Civil Rights Law and gave his opinions thereon, which, as they bear a marked contrast to those of Northern demagogues, we here publish. Of the first section of the bill, he says:

It confers the privilege of citizenship of the United States upon the colored races, and gives them the right to "make and enforce contracts, to sue and be sued," &c. It does not confer upon them the right to vote, to hold office, to serve on juries, or to interfere with the regulations and elections of steamboats, railroads, street cars, theatres, or other places of public resort. It does not interfere with social relations in any manner whatever.

As to the other rights specified, he believes they unfortunately exist already, as a necessary consequence of emancipation, with the single exception of the right to give evidence," which is limited by law. In most of the Southern States, to cases in which one of the parties is a negro. Thus, after all, we have always considered a small matter. No statute can take from a jury the power to determine for itself the credibility of evidence, and thus to neutralize the mischief to be apprehended from negro testimony.

The truth is, we have in our very midst a rare and striking example of the practical effects that may be expected to result from this bill. We refer to the colored creoles of Middle and Lo veloity.

These people, although of African and mixed blood, were citizens under the Spanish Government, on an equal footing in all respects with other citizens. The treaty of 1819, by which this portion of Alabama (with Florida) was ceded to the United States, expressly guaranteed to them a confirmation of the privileges of citizenship. They have actually been citizens of Alabama and Florida for nearly half a century. To those familiar with the county we need not add that they have been good citizens—among the very best of citizens. No conflict has ever occurred as to their status. The question of evidence has never been raised, that we are aware of; or if raised, it has never occasioned any difficulty. The colored creoles have always maintained their position, as a separate race—carefully holding themselves aloof both from the whites and the negroes, but never interfering with either. They have been exemplary in the discharge of all the duties of citizenship, neighborhood and hospitality, and have secured the respect of all classes of society. There is no conflict of races.

Now, as we have intimated, the effect of the Civil Rights bill will be to give the negroes a political status almost, if not altogether, identical with that already occupied by the colored creoles. As this has so long existed in the one case without creating any difficulty, we do not see any great reason to apprehend very serious evils in the other.

As to social relations, they cannot be affected. The whites, the colored creoles, and the freedmen will continue to be—as they have all along been—separate and distinct classes. No legislation can render it otherwise.

"Nasby" on the Situation.—He Cautions the "Domocrisy."

Petroleum V. Nasby is not fully satisfied as to respecting the President's intentions. He writes as follows:

Andrew Johnson may possibly be on the high road to Rome (by, but I'm yet what saloonists he's on." Am I a datin my letter from "Post Orfis Confederate X Roads." Has that his or not, any well authenticated case of the removal of a Abolitionist, and the appointment of a reconstructed Democrat in his stead? Not that I have heard of. For contrary, the Abolitionists—them ez was appointed by Lincoln are still holdin on ez calm as a summer mornin, without any fear of any change.

Who pays for the bulls? Who pays the music? Who pays the postage? Illustrations when they scent. Post offices in the distance? Are they not like the war hoss in Job's writens who smelt the battle afar off, and remarked Ha! Ha! as the trumpeted. Let me subtract risk as you that they kin make a better investment of their means.

The cost of one treetle, put in barn whisky, would not only salute Thorsdtyes, but start half a dozen Abolitionists on the road and keep them there.

Men is deceptive. I have hopes of Andrew Johnson myself, and principally becoz Vallandigum and Fernandy Wood I have hopes. Them buzzards kin smell Northern a long distance, and they are seldom at fault. In this case they may be. They base their hopes on Johnson's last speech at Washington, on the 22d. They may be entitin on it, but it is possible that the animals which they spaned from Johnson, arize from them ez surrounded him!

"Hist," says a Bluecoat, whose nose, from long application of back of supplies, has inflamed down from a genuine crimson to a cloudy blue, and who wouldn't buy a small Post orfice on a promise of it unless offered him, "look to the class he spoke to!"

What nonsense! Andrew was mad. There was a mass ov life on his political stumpskirk, which must be got rid ov, and it was a part of the eternal fitness in things that he should levy a nasty outlimen to say on it.

I don't propose to go at finite sposins over the present situation. Johnson proposes to continue the Freedmen's Buro, and hasn't no notion of repealin the test oath, or ov ockupying the military out ov the Democratic States. So far as heard from, we ov the South is still in a state ov abject cussidnud. Our habb carpiuses which kin do took away from us how'ever his retained, and we are obleeged to git along the best we kin without them.

I knocked down a small fortune per pinkay for the purpose ov asserlin the superiority ov the Caucasian race over the African, and won to wund hauled up before a Freedmen's Buro and fined. One high toned and chivalrous members are curbooked from Congress, on the trivious plea that they saw 3 colts and indigy-colored females in the Confederate navie, and all these outrages gain Dimocracy. Andrew Johnson, by permitten, absolootly approves.

I could probably swallow all these things, I was a Dimocrat ov thirty years standin, and we course has bin on hand since my every politikle fence—the steels in my politikle pants is full ov sharps. But before I subscribe to these things I WANT TO KNOW WHETHER ANDY HAS GIV UP FOR GIT. If Andrew Johnson goes back on his party and his pledges, he ov course asks us to go back on ourn. In sich transactions, where both parties by both engaged in it all, confess themselves a low grade ov skumdrels, I think it well ennff to hev the consideration paid down. If Andrew Johnson wants me, he knows the terms. I am his to command, for a reasonable consideration, same ez he is the thousands ov Dimocrats who have bin for the past week gittin up the demonstrations. But I want nothin to go on. When I hev his permission under the broad seal ov the Post Office Department to write "P. M." after my illustrious name, I shall be prepared to write in. I hev bin humbin up several reasons for supportin him—I hev on all sexes, I only want the additional one, and then I fling my bonnet to the breeze. Faith is said to be the sum of all religious systems—Post Office is the central digger in all Dimokratic creeds—the theme of conversation by day, and the staple ov dreams by night. How long? Oh, how long!

RESULT OF A JOHNSON MEETING AT FORT SCOTT.—A correspondent writes from Fort Scott (Kansas) under date of April, 10th, as follows:

As a straw to show which way the wind blows in this section of the State, I give you a synopsis of the proceedings had and done at a mass meeting held at the City Hall in this city, this day, the 14th instant.

The meeting was called by the reconstructed Andy Johnson party of the city, for the purpose of "ratifying" the action of the committee in indorsing the policy of Johnson and the late action of Jim Lane, it being the understanding among them that this city and township were decidedly of that ilk, and consequently having no fears as to the result. But the true Republicans were not to be cloaked off without an effort, and some of the leading men having quietly circulated it among the party that it would be well to be present at the early hour at the appointed time that they were ready for the fray.

At the hour appointed, the hall being crowded full, the meeting was called to order and Democratic officers elected without opposition. The Administration men were now jubilant, thinking that the city had turned out en masse to indorse "our President" and "our Senators" but what were their surprise, disgust and rage, when, upon the first real kick-up the resolutions indorsing Johnson and Lane being introduced, to see them repudiated and voted down by a two-thirds majority; after which, in spite of the frantic efforts of the "Andies" to adjourn, resolutions indorsing the action of the loyal Congress were passed by an overwhelming vote—thereby proclaiming to the rest of the State that this city repudiated and denounced "Tyler No. 2" and all political demagogues who wear his collar; that it is at last redeemed, regenerated and disenthralled; that the sale and transfer of the renegade Jim Lane, is too palpable to be misunderstood; that in spite of his Great God (which god I suppose to be a cross between Mammon and Vishnu) he is deemed a "spirit" radical Kansas men, and wear a collar marked "A. Johnson" during the remainder of his term.

AN UNGRATEFUL DOG DENIES HIS FRIEND.—We understand that Fay idiots by repudiates the idea that he caused the plaint with colored folks. We did not mention what we had heard about the matter as being any disgrace to Fay, and never heard anybody else so speak of it. As we heard the story, it is this: Fay was coming to Oregon, and got sick on the way. An old colored man and his wife took pity on little Fay, then a mere boy, and took him into their wagon, nursed him, fed him, and kept him from dying, and brought him safely through. The first act that Fay did, after he came to years of majority in Oregon, was to cast his vote against all the negroes, including his old friends on the plain, from the State. This piece of South Carolina gratitude so incensed the old colored man, that he made known the part he had taken in bringing Fay to Oregon. This is the story as we have heard it at least a dozen times. Fay's ingratitude to the old colored man and woman is but in keeping with the baseness of his heart.—Statesman.
